16. Course-related policies:

- This course is an intensive one-semester course where the student would have to execute a project, therefore, ready to present and discuss in class.

- The Class Instructors is more of a facilitator for an exciting journey. Therefore, everyone is invited to contribute the extracurricular material and multimedia that would add to the quality of and outcome of this journey.
- There would be visits that would be planned 2-3 times during the course. Usually these visits timing depend on the nature of the organisations visited.
- Inspiration Economy Experts would also be invited where possible to some of the classes to participate and share experiences.
- The course project is meant to be the main contribution of the students to the course outcome. Therefore, you are highly encouraged to make a live project where it might change your life and inspires others in the class.
- Students should try their best not to miss class or visits as it would affect their contribution to the course. The instructor would use the 10% of participation to ensure that this encourages the student to abide by this requirement.
- Missing any assignment or exam required to close should be for a serious excuse.
- Final Exam would be an open book.
